

MPQG BOM July: All You Need is Love

The concept of “All You Need is Love” was born out of a request for a song that could be understood by people of all nations. The writing began in late May of 1967, with both John and Paul working on separate songs. It was decided that John’s version was the better choice because of its easy to understand message of love and peace.

The song was released in the middle of the Summer of Love (1967) and was a big part of the vibe of that summer.

I know that some of you have already done this foundation pieced LOVE block, but I hadn’t. And I love it! And, all you need is love!

The instructions below have the templates for several sizes. For an 18” block either print the 12” template at 150% or add a 3” border to the 12” block. I printed at 150 % and it worked well.
